Handbook of Workplace Diversity
Advisory Board

Adrienne Colella, Texas A&M University
Dafna Eylon, University of Richmond
Jean Mannheimer Forray, Western New England College
Jodi Goodman, University of Connecticut
Laura Graves, Clark University
Frank Linnehan, Drexel University
Karen Lyness, Baruch College, CUNY
Raza Mir, William Paterson University
Kiran Mirchandani, University of Toronto
Anshuman Prasad, University of New Haven
Gay Simpkin, University of Auckland
Ralph Stablein, Massey University
Handbook of Workplace Diversity

Edited by Alison M. Konrad, Pushkala Prasad and Judith K. Pringle

SAGE Publications
London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi
Contents

Notes on Contributors ix

Examining the Contours of Workplace Diversity: Concepts, Contexts and Challenges 1
Pushkala Prasad, Judith K. Pringle and Alison M. Konrad

Part I Theoretical Perspectives on Workplace Diversity 23

1 Psychological Perspectives on Workplace Diversity 25
Carol T. Kulik and Hugh T. J. Bainbridge

2 Human Resource Strategies to Manage Workforce Diversity: Examining 'The Business Case' 53
Ellen Ernst Kossek, Sharon A. Lobel and Jennifer Brown

3 Diversity: Making Space for a Better Case 75
Deborah R. Litvin

4 From Managing Equality to Managing Diversity: A Critical Scandinavian Perspective on Gender and Workplace Diversity 95
Yvonne Due Billing and Elisabeth Sundin

5 The Jewel in the Crown: Postcolonial Theory and Workplace Diversity 121
Anshuman Prasad

6 Diversity as Resistance and Recuperation: Critical Theory, Post-structuralist Perspectives and Workplace Diversity 145
Deborah Jones and Ralph Stablein

7 Diversity: The Cultural Logic of Global Capital? 167
Raza Mir, Ali Mir and Diana J. Wong

Part II Methods for Studying Workplace Diversity 189

8 What Is Diversity and How Should It Be Measured? 191
David A. Harrison and Hack-Peng Sin
Part III  Dimensions of Workplace Diversity

11 Of Small Steps and the Longing for Giant Leaps: Research on the Intersection of Sex and Gender within Work and Organizations
   Yvonne Benschop

12 Men, Masculinities and Workplace Diversity/Diversion: Power, Intersections and Contradictions
   Jeff Hearn and David Collinson

13 Race and Ethnicity in Organizations
   Karen L. Proudford and Stella Nkomo

14 Age and Ageism in Organizations: A Review and Consideration of National Culture
   Elissa L. Perry and Jennifer D. Parlamis

15 Seven Conversations about the Same Thing: Homophobia and Heterosexism in the Workplace
   W. E. Douglas Creed

16 The Influence of Disability on Role-Taking in Organizations
   Eugene F. Stone-Romero, Dianna L. Stone and Kimberly Lukaszewski

17 Locating Class in Organizational Diversity Work: Class as Structure, Style and Process
   Maureen A. Scully and Stacy Blake-Beard

18 Outcomes of Appearance and Obesity in Organizations
   Myrtle P. Bell and Mary E. McLaughlin

19 Beyond Inclusion and Equity: Contributions from Transnational Anti-Racist Feminism
   Kiran Mirchandani and Alana Butler
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>Trade Unions and Equality and Diversity</td>
<td>489</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Anne-marie Greene and Gill Kirton</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Critical Diversity Management Practice in Australia: Romanced or Co-Opted?</td>
<td>511</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Amanda Sinclair</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Conclusion: Reflection and future direction</td>
<td>531</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Judith K. Pringle, Alison M. Konrad and Pushkala Prasad</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Index</td>
<td>540</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Hugh T.J. Bainbridge is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Melbourne, Australia. His research interests focus on how organizations can reduce the stigma and negative outcomes experienced by people with disabilities and their caregivers.

Myrtle Bell, Ph.D., is an associate professor of management at the University of Texas at Arlington. Her research focuses on diversity and social issues at work.

Yvonne Benschop is an associate professor of gender and culture at the Nijmegen School of Management, Radboud University Nijmegen, the Netherlands. Her research combines feminist organization studies and critical management studies.

Yvonne Due Billing works at the Department of Sociology, University of Copenhagen, Denmark. She has published widely within the field of gender and organizations. Her publications include Understanding Gender and Organizations (SAGE, 1997) and Gender, Managers and Organizations (de Gruyter, 1994), both co-authored with Mats Alvesson with whom she has also adopted Miha and Mathilda from Vietnam.

Stacy Blake-Beard, Ph.D., is an associate professor at the Simmons School of Management. She is a research faculty member with the Center for Gender in Organizations at Simmons. Her research has focused on gender and race issues in mentoring, the growing importance of women mentors, and the dynamics of formal mentoring programs in both corporate and educational settings. She consults with a number of organizations on diversity issues, including Chase Manhattan Bank, The Compact for Faculty Diversity, and PepsiCo. She sits on the advisory boards of Essence Magazine’s Best Places for African American Women to Work, MentorNet, and the Harvard Project on Tenure.

Jennifer Brown is employed by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation as a Human Resource Specialist. She holds a BA in personnel administration and a Master’s of Labor Relations and Human Resources from Michigan State University.

Alana Butler is a graduate of the Adult Education and Community Development program at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto. Her recent thesis work focuses on anti-racist approaches to diversity training for the corporate sector.

Donna Chrobot-Mason, Ph.D., is an assistant professor in the Center for Organizational Leadership at the University of Cincinnati, and the Graduate Director for the Masters in Labor and Employment Relations Program.

David Collinson is Professor of Leadership and Organization at Lancaster University Management School. David’s work develops a critical approach to key organizational issues such as management, resistance, identity, gender, masculinity, safety and humour. His current research focuses on critical approaches to leadership and followership. He is also founding co-editor of the refereed journal Leadership.

Anne-marie Greene is a senior lecturer in industrial relations at Warwick Business School, University of Warwick. Her research interests include gender and workplace trade unionism and the use of new ICTs by trade unions. She is co-author of The Dynamics of Managing Diversity: A Critical Approach (Butterworth-Heinemann, 2005) and is researching diversity management in the UK funded by the European Social Fund.

David A. Harrison is a professor of management at the Pennsylvania State University. His research on work role adjustment, time and diversity, executive decision making, and organizational measurement has appeared widely.

Jeff Hearn is an academy fellow and professor at the Swedish School of Economics, Helsinki, Finland, and Research Professor in Sociology, University of Huddersfield, UK. His books include: ‘Sex’ at ‘Work’ (Prentice Hall/Harvester Wheatsheaf, 1995), Gender, Sexuality and Violence in Organizations, co-authored with Wendy Parkin (SAGE, 2001), Information Society and the Workplace, co-edited with Tuula Heiskanen (Routledge, 2004), and Handbook of Studies on Men and Masculinities, co-edited with Michael S. Kimmel and Robert W. Connell (SAGE, 2005).

Deborah Jones is a senior lecturer at Victoria Management School in Wellington, New Zealand. With early degrees in English literature and sociolinguistics, she has drawn on her humanities education in her work in management studies. She has published on discourse analysis, feminist post-structuralism, diversity and equality, ethnicity and gender, and organizational communication. More recently she has been involved in research on older women’s work, on pay equity, on national identity, and on creative industries, especially the New Zealand film industry.

Gill Kirton is a senior lecturer in the Centre for Business Management at Queen Mary, University of London. Her research interests include gender and race equality, diversity and employment relations, trade union education, and women’s trade union careers. She is co-author of The Dynamics of Managing Diversity: A Critical Approach (Butterworth-Heinemann, 2005) and is researching diversity management in the UK funded by the European Social Fund.

Alison M. Konrad, Ph.D., is a professor of organizational behavior and holder of the Corus Entertainment Chair in Women in Management at the Richard Ivey School of Business, University of Western Ontario.

Ellen Ernst Kossek, Ph.D., is a professor at Michigan State University. She is a Fellow of APA and SIOP, and elected to the Academy of Management’s Board of Governors.

Carol T. Kulik is a professor of human resource management at the University of Melbourne, Australia. Carol’s research interests encompass cognitive processes, demographic diversity, and organizational justice.

Frank Linnehan, Ph.D., is an associate professor of organizational behavior and human resources in Drexel University’s LeBow College of Business. His research interests include workforce diversity and school-to-work transitions.

Deborah R. Litvin, Ph.D., is an assistant professor of management at the Girard School of Business and International Commerce, Merrimack College.

Sharon Lobel is a professor of management at Seattle University’s Albers School of Business and Economics. She is also a research fellow at the Center for Work and Family at Boston College.

Kimberly Lukaszewski received her Ph.D. from Albany State University of New York, and is now Assistant Professor of Management at the State University of New York at New Paltz. Her research interests include diversity in organizations, electronic human resources management (e-HR), and recruiting. She has published several book chapters on disability issues, e-HR, and online recruiting, and has presented a number of papers at meetings of the Academy of Management and the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology.
Mary E. McLaughlin is a faculty member in the Department of Management and Organization at Pennsylvania State University. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Illinois-Urbana in 1988.

Albert Mills is Director of the Sobey Ph.D. Program (St Mary’s University). He is the author of Sex, Strategy and the Stratosphere (Palgrave, 2006) and co-author/co-editor of 11 other books.

Jean Helms Mills is an Associate Professor of Management at St Mary’s University. She is the author of Making Sense of Organizational Change (Routledge, 2003) and is currently working on her sixth co-authored/co-edited book.

Ali Mir is an associate professor in the College of Business at William Paterson University. He is currently working on issues related to migration/immigration and the international division of labor. He is on the board of directors of the Brecht Forum in New York City.

Raza Mir is an associate professor in the College of Business at William Paterson University. His research mainly concerns the transfer of knowledge across national boundaries in multinational corporations, and issues relating to power and resistance in organizations.

Kiran Mirchandani is an associate professor at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto. She has published on home-based work, telework, contingent work, entrepreneurship, transnational service work and self-employment. She teaches in the Adult Education and Community Development Program and offers courses on gendered and racialized processes in the workplace, critical perspectives on organizational development and learning, and technology, globalization and economic restructuring.

Stella M. Nkomo, Ph.D., is a professor of business leadership at the University of South Africa Graduate School of Business Leadership. A former scholar-in-residence at the Mary Ingraham Bunting Institute of Radcliffe College, her internationally recognized work on race and gender in organizations and managing diversity appears in numerous journals, edited volumes, and magazines. She is the past Chair of the Women in Management Division of the Academy of Management.

Jennifer Parlamis received her Ph.D. in social-organizational psychology at Teachers College, Columbia University in 2001. She completed a post-doctoral fellowship at Columbia University’s School of Business in 2002 and is currently a lecturer of psychology and education and Director of the MA program in social-organizational psychology at Teachers College, Columbia University.
Anshuman Prasad, Ph.D., is Professor of Strategic Management and Organizational Analysis at the University of New Haven. His research interests include corporate legitimacy, workplace diversity, resistance and empowerment, and epistemology.

Pushkala Prasad is the Zankel Chair Professor of Management for Liberal Arts Students at Skidmore College. Her research interests are in workplace diversity, multiculturalism and organizational legitimacy. She has recently published Crafting Qualitative Research with M.E. Sharpe Inc.

Elissa L. Perry is an associate professor of psychology and education at Teachers College, Columbia University. She received an M.S. and Ph.D. in organizational behavior and theory from Carnegie Mellon University. Elissa has research interests in the role of demographic variables in human resource judgments, sexual harassment, and older workers.

Judith K. Pringle, Ph.D., is Professor/Organization Studies at Auckland University of Technology. Her teaching and research focuses on issues of workplace diversity, the constructed identities of women in organizations, gender issues and critical analyses of careers.

Karen L. Proudford, Ph.D., is an associate professor of management at the Graves School of Business and Management, Morgan State University. She is also a faculty affiliate with the Center for Gender in Organizations at the Simmons School of Management. Her research, writing and consulting interests include group and intergroup dynamics, leadership, diversity and conflict.

Maureen Scully, Ph.D., is an assistant professor at the University of Massachusetts Boston. She is a faculty affiliate with the Center for Gender in Organizations at the Simmons School of Management and a research advisor for the Aspen Institute Business and Society Program. Her research focuses on how inequality is legitimated in organizational settings and is sometimes contested by grassroots employees groups. She has studied a variety of organizational change initiatives including corporate ethics programs, employee affinity groups, work restructuring, and virtual work. She is currently working on a book, Luck, Pluck, or Merit? How Americans Make Sense of Inequality.

Hock-Peng Sin is a Ph.D. student in industrial/organizational psychology at the Pennsylvania State University. His research interests include causes and consequences of performance trajectories and interpersonal dynamics in the workplace.
Amanda Sinclair is Foundation Professor of management (diversity and change) at Melbourne Business School. Her two most recent books are Doing Leadership Differently and New Faces of Leadership (both published by Melbourne University Press, 1998 and 2002 respectively). Amanda teaches and conducts research in areas including leadership, change, ethics, gender and diversity. As a yoga teacher, she also has a keen interest in supporting people towards change and growth, at work and in life.

Ralph Stablein, Ph.D., is Professor of Management at Massey University in New Zealand. His research and teaching focus on inquiry in organization studies and critical management studies.

Dianna L. Stone received her Ph.D. from Purdue University and is Professor of Management and Psychology at the University of Central Florida. Her research focuses on diversity in organizations, electronic human resources management (e-HR), privacy, and reactions to selection techniques. The results of her research have been published in the Journal of Applied Psychology, Personnel Psychology, Academy of Management Review, Organizational Behavior and Human Decision Processes, and Journal of Management. She has also edited two books on e-HR, and is on the editorial boards of Human Resources Management Review, Human Resources Management and other journals. She is a Fellow of the American Psychological Society and the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology.

Elisabeth Sundin is a professor at the Swedish National Institute of Working Life and at the Department of Business Administration, Linköpings University, Sweden. She has been doing research on gender and organizations for many years and was leading the organizational part of a public investigation on women and economic power in Sweden in the late 1990s.